Skills and competence to overcome the crisis

Brussels, 2 March 2010, 15.00-17.30

Skills and competence drive change and innovation in our economies and help make our societies more equitable and inclusive.
A clear skills strategy is therefore imperative if we are to move successfully towards

Such a strategy should look beyond immediate needs.
We will need to take long-term trends and challenges into account if we are to steer both education and training, and employment policies, in the right direction.
